in dedication . . .

The 1972 Weathervane is dedicated to a man who has been an integral part of Maumee Valley Country Day School for many years. He arrived at our school during its first year of occupancy in the Upper School building and has since enhanced the formation and growth of Maumee Valley and of the young people who have attended and represent the school. He has given much of himself to the school, enriching its educational philosophy with his own integrity and guidance, and never permitting the functioning of the school to stagnate in customary methods. He has always been willing to experience and experiment with new and challenging ideas. Indeed, the New School, his latest achievement, was built with the intention of encouraging progress in the lesser explored areas of education. Now that he has done so much for Maumee Valley, he is leaving us next year to meet a new challenge by creating a school to encourage the growth of others as well as his own personal growth. Although we will miss him greatly, we wish him the best of everything. In our gratitude for his leadership and foresight, we dedicate this book to him: Mr. Gordon Schofield.

Now I'm just average,common,too
I'm just like him,the same as you
I'm everybody's brother 'n son
I ain't different than anyone.
Ain't no use to talk to me
It's just the same as talkin' to you.

Well I don't know, but I've been told
The streets of heaven are lined with gold
I ask you how things could get much worse
If the Russians happen to get up there first Wowee!Pretty scary!

Now I'm liberal, but to a degree
I want everybody to be free
But if you think I'll let Barry Goldwater move in next door or marry my daughter
You must think I'm crazy —
I wouldn't do it for all the farms
in Cuba.

I sat with my high heel sneakers on Waitin' to play tennis in the noonday sun
I had my white shorts rolled up past my waist
And my wighat was falling in my face
But they wouldn't let me on the tennis court.

I'm going to grow my hair down
to my feet-so strange
So I look like a walking mountain range.
And I'm going to ride into Omaha
on a horse
Out to the country club and the golf course—
carrying a New York Times—
shoot a few holes—
blow their minds.

What could she say to the fantastic foolybear
and what could she say to brother and what could she say to the cat with future feet
and what could she say to mother
after that time she lay lush
among the lolly flowers
on that hot riverbank
where ferns fell away in the broken air of the breath of her lover
and birds went mad
and threw themselves from trees
to taste still hot upon the ground
the spilled sperm seed.

You are the brave who do not break
In the grip of the mob when the blow comes straight to the shattered bone
When the sockets shriek;when your arms lie twisted under your back

Good men holding their courage slack in their frightened pockets
see how weak the work that is done—
and feel the weight of your blood on the ground for their spirit's sake

And build their anger,stone on stone—
Each silently,but not alone.

Doug McPherson

In the beginning Man created God;
and in the image of Man created he him.
And Man gave unto God
a multitude of names,that he might be Lord over all the earth when it was suited to Man.
And on the seven millionth day
Man rested and did lean heavily on his God
and saw that it was good.
And Man formed other men of the dust
of the ground, and a host of others likened unto his kind.
And these lesser men Man did cast into the void.And some were burned;
and some were put apart from their kind.
And Man became the God
that he had created and with his miracles did rule over all the earth.
But as all things did come to pass, the Spirit that did cause man to create his God
lived on within all men.
And man saw it not.
But for Christ's sake
he'd better start looking.

What can you see
if you look to the sky?
What can you learn
if you've got the will to try?

The light will blind you if you look to the sun.

Don't try to see what is happening today—
You may be surprised at how frightened you become.
Don't try to find what tomorrow will bring—
You may be surprised at how lost you become.

Look to yesterday—
pray for tomorrow
And watch out for today.

Look to yesterday—
see what you've done.
Look to yesterday.....and pray.

A LONG TIME AFTER

The shadows of night had long since fallen, but the old man did not bother to get up from his chair to turn on the lamp. Instead, he continued rocking back and forth, his eyes sparkling as he reminiced aloud, his great-grandson perched on his lap, straddling one knee and listening intently to every word.

"I spent six years of my life at Maumee Valley. Yes, little Phil, six wonderful years. Of course at the time I didn't think they were so wonderful."

The old man licked his lips, then cleared some of the roughness out of his throat.

"You see, we were a small school, so small, in fact, that you might have called us a large family instead. Yes, now that I think about it, that's exactly what we were—A large family, brothers and sisters. Not just friends or people who just happened to learn together—but brothers and sisters."

The old man paused to reflect, and nothing could be heard but the creaking of his chair.

"We had our problems of course. But then, every large family has its problems. We had our good times too. Plenty of them in fact. But we were always growing and changing. Sometimes, for the better. Sometimes, for the worse. But we all grew together. We...."

The old man stopped, and tears ran down the wrinkles in his withered face. "What's wrong, Grandpa?" the small boy asked. "Why're you crying" "Oh, you wouldn't understand," the old man said in a very tired voice. "You see, I miss my brothers and sisters.

We sometimes congratulate ourselves at the moment of waking from a troubled dream; it maybe so the moment after death.—Hawthorne
And when he is silent your heart ceases not to listen to his heart! For without words, in friendship, all thoughts, all desires, all expectations are born and shared, with joy that is unacclaimed.
For what is your friend that you should seek him with hours to kill? Seek him always with hours to live. For it is his to fill your need, but not your emptiness.
Ane think not you can direct the course of love, for love, if it I was you worthey, directs your course.
...let these be your desires...to know the pain of too much tenderness...andane to boeed willingly and joyfully...ane then to sleep with a prayer for the beloved in your heart and a song of praise upon your lips. For reason, ruling alone, is a force confining; and passion, unattended, is a flame that burns its own destruction
...consider your judgement and your appetite even as you would two loved guests in your house. Surely you would not honour one guest above the other; for he who is more mindful of one loses the love and faith of both.
Therefore let your soul exalt your reason to the height of passion with reason.
...rest in reason and move in passion.

It was in the garden of a madhouse that I met a youth with a face pale and lovely and full of wonder. And I sat beside him in the him upon the beach, and I said "Why are you here?" And he looked at me in astonishment, and said, It is an unseemly question, yet I will answer you. My father would make of me a reproduction of himself; so also would my uncle. My mother would have me the image of her illustrious father. My sister would hold up her seafaring husband as the perfect example for me to follow. My brother thinks I should be like him, a fine athlete. "And my teachers also, the doctor of philosophy, and the music-master, and the logician, they too were determined, and each would have me but a reflection of his own face in a mirror. Therefore I came to this place. I find it more sane here. At least, I can be myself."
Then of a sudden he turned to me and he said, "But tell me, were you also driven to this place by education and good counsel?
And I answered, "No, I am a visitor." And he said, "Oh, you are one of those who live in the madhouse on the other side of the wall.

Don't talk of love, well
I've heard the word before
It's sleeping in my memory
I won't disturb the slumber
Of feelings that have died
If I'd never loved I never would have cried
I am a rock, I am an island.

I have my books
And my poetry to protect me
I am shielded in my armor
Hiding in my room
Safe within my womb
I touch no one and no one touches me
I am a rock, I am an island.

And a rock feels no pain
And an island never cries.

I should have told you that love is more than being warm in bed.

More

than individuals seeking an accomplice.
Even more than wanting to share.

I could have said
that love at best is giving what you need to get.

But it was raining
and we had no place to go and riding through the streets in a cab

I remembered

that words are only necessary after love has gone.

"I do not choose to be a common man. It is my right to be uncommon—if I can. I seek opportunity, not security. I do not wish to be a kept citizen, humbled and dulled by having the state look after me. I want to take a calculated risk, to dream and to build, to fail and to succeed. I refuse to barter incentive for a dole. I prefer the challenges of life to a guaranteed existence, the thrill of fulfillment to the stale slam of Utopia. I will not trade freedom for benefiance, nor dignity for a handout. It is my heritage to think and to act for myself, enjoy the benefit of my creations, and to face the world boldly and say with God's help 'this I have done'."

you ask me why i don't smile is there something troubling me just open your eyes and look around and tell me what do you see

can you understand the things people do and the way they treat each other and tell me how far has man really come when today he's still killing his brother

it makes no difference where you do it or what name you use
i know if things keep going this way everyone's gonna lose everybody's gonna lose

we're doing alright with material things you can tell by the way we live
but with all these things man has learned how to do he still hasn't learned how to give

if you don't have the answers right now i'll see you after awhile
but if next time i still look this way
you know why i don't smile

Lying awake, I ponder and ask how,

Have you reached communion with God?
Is that what you really expect?

And erected the house of the lord:
Can you find serenity in your guilt?
Knowing you have slain the life of unity
Have committed the gravest sin.

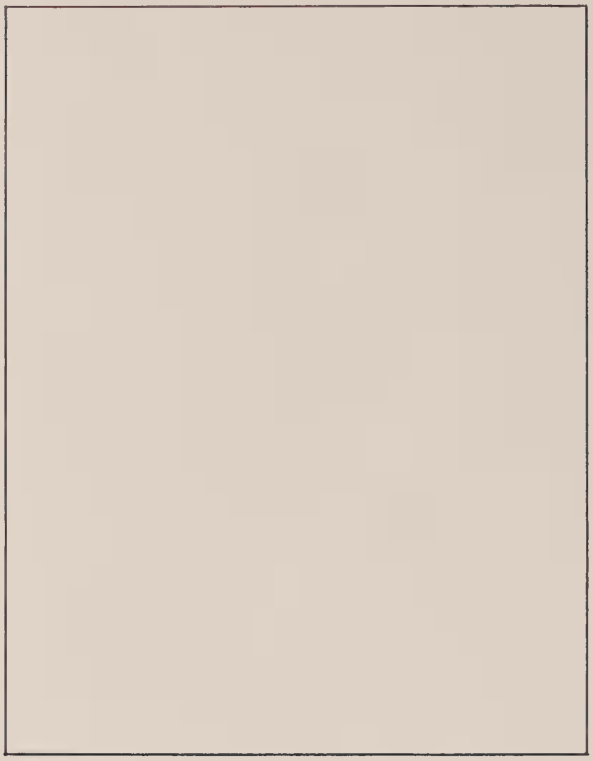
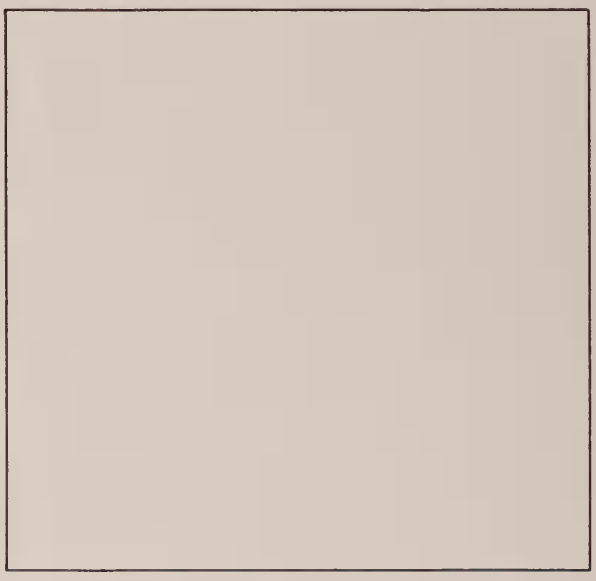
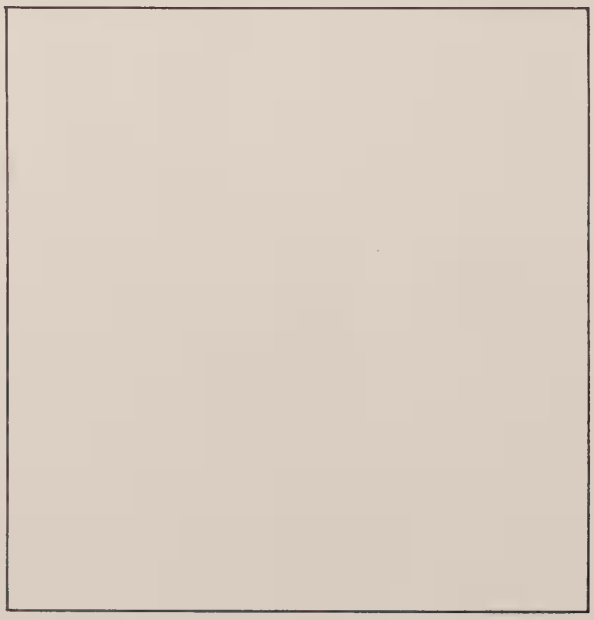
This picture was going to be a picture of Cathy Baer serving but nobody ever took the picture . . .



. . . And this picture would have been of Kim Swirbul smashing a ball at the net . . .



. . . Oh and this picture was going to be a fantastic shot of Libby Husted, jumping a foot to return a ball . . .



. . . And finally the best of all. A picture of our coach yelling "Get'em girls". It's just a shame that nobody took these pictures.

DON'T SELL BUSINESS SHORT

You hear a lot of talk these days about the business world being a pretty dull, humdrum place. Some say it offers no really meaningful challenges. No opportunities for individual expression. Law, medicine or the Peace Corps perhaps. But not business.

Don't you believe it. American business today is a highly demanding institution. With plenty of room for personal contribution and growth. And if you feel strongly about man's social responsibility—business offers a unique opportunity for self-expression in this area, too.

Most likely you have further schooling ahead of you. But that day of decision on your long-term future is coming sooner than you realize. If when it arrives you've established a record of good grades and participation in extracurricular activities—think seriously about the rewards of a career in business—with us.

Fiberglas cord is making tracks.

These tough glass fibers from Owens-Corning add safety and performance to tires on most new Detroit cars. They form the fabric that protects Apollo space suits from temperature and fire.

And Fiberglas* reinforcements put strength and durability into a majority of pleasure-boat hulls built today. In fact, it's estimated there are more than 33,000 ways Fiberglas materials can profitably replace metals, wood or cloth. They're already in many of these uses right now, moving fast into others. Your career could make tracks at Owens-Corning too. There are hundreds of opportunities. For information, write us: Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation, Fiberglas Tower, Toledo, Ohio 43601.
